Glas Cymru Welcomes Public Consultation

Glas Cymru today welcomed the public consultation programme which will seek views on Glas Cymru's plans for Welsh Water. The consultation begins in earnest tonight, with a public meeting to be held in Cwmbran, arranged by the OFWAT Customer Services Committee for Wales.

The company's plans offer the prospect of lower bills and secure continued investment in the water industry and environment in Wales. The ownership and control of Welsh Water will remain in Wales.

Chris Jones, a Director of Glas Cymru, said:

We are looking forward to explaining our exciting plans for the future of Welsh Water, Wales's most precious natural resource. It is also a good opportunity to hear the views of the people of Wales.

Our innovative structure is designed to deliver real benefits for customers and the environment in Wales. It is important for us to be an open and transparent organisation, and tonight's meeting is a good opportunity to start as we mean to continue.
